

Introducing WaterCop®

When your house falls victim to common plumbing water leakage and catastrophic flooding, you could experience much more than structural and interior damage – your irreplaceable keepsakes can be destroyed in an instant as well.

WaterCop monitors your home 24/7, whether you are home or away, making it an invaluable investment for both primary homes and especially secondary residences, which are typically left unattended for extended periods. You probably already have fire and security systems and understand the value of these important investments.

The WaterCop System:

Because WaterCop is a discrete system, all components remain hidden from view.

A wireless network of sensors capable of detecting even a few ounces of water

A convenient remote soft touch switch for complete and instant control of your water supply

WaterCop is your next logical step in home protection and offers the following advantages:

- Monitors your entire home for leaks
- Easily integrates into – and will provide water leakage alerts to – security or home automation systems
- Will help to prevent or reduce water damage and flooding if a water fixture or appliance malfunctions
- May help you qualify for discounts on your home insurance premiums
- Eliminates the headaches and costs of dealing with water damage and the accompanying cleanup process
- Helps protect your priceless family keepsakes from destructive and probable plumbing failures
- Helps protect the insurability of your home

A valve that will automatically turn off the water when notified
